

ALICE

always on audit

always on compliance

always on monitoring

always on peace of mind

Alice is known as an audit robot (abbrev: aubot). She is a species of the artificial intelligence kind and born in the cloud. She provides audit-as-a-service in the IT and cyber spaces. She facilitates the automated collection, storage, analysis and reporting of IT environment and cyber security data against various best practice standards. She is secure, scalable and has global reach. She is unequivocally independent, system agnostic and aggressively affordable. Her vision is to avail IT and security assurance to all businesses – no matter what the size or maturity.

She primarily resonates with two types of audiences, the first being those charged with governance as she equips them with visibility into the risk, governance and security of the IT environment. The second being IT management as she enables them to mitigate and manage the IT risks in a continuous, online and real-time manner. She interacts with her audiences through intuitive and interactive reporting techniques coupled with instant messaging when she wants to prompt the client for additional information or inform the client of new threats and/or anomalies detected. Should the client want to ask her a question – they are most welcome.

ALICE is comfortable in all IT environments enabled through an environmentally friendly and light deployment of connectors into the IT environment while the heavy processing is performed in the secured cloud. She is very flexible in her deployment options, from executables to Docker containers. Consequently, her connectors can run in a home environment through to an enterprise hosted in the cloud. With new connectors being deployed each month, her reach has no limits.

She is differentiated by her extensive database of real-time data available for trend analysis and risk profiling based on client type or industry and IT infrastructure or security maturity. Upon her identifying a new trend or anomaly globally, she automatically applies risk monitoring against the entire client base.

In summary, ALICE provides always on audit, compliance, monitoring and peace of mind.
